AIA New York Announces 2024 Design Awards Recipients

22 winning projects in the categories of Architecture, Interiors, Projects, and Urban Design survey the state of architecture today and celebrate exceptional work by architects practicing in New York City

New York City, January 8, 2024 – On Monday, January 8, 2024, a jury of independent architects, educators, and planners from outside New York City convened to select the winners of the 2024 AIA New York Design Awards. Later that evening, the jurors publicly announced the 22 winning projects at a symposium, free and open to the public, hosted at the Center for Architecture and on Zoom.

The selected projects and the architecture firms that designed them represent the exceptional work by AIA New York members and architects practicing in New York City. Awards were conferred in four categories: Architecture, Interiors, Projects, and Urban Design. Each winning project, granted either an “Honor”, “Merit”, or “Citation”, was chosen for its design quality, response to its context and community, program resolution, innovation, thoughtfulness, and technique. Submitted projects had to be completed by AIANY members or architects/designers practicing in New York, or be New York projects designed by architects/designers based elsewhere.

Selected from among nearly 200 entries, the winning projects range from temporary installations and exhibitions to large-scale urban interventions. Thirteen of the 22 winners are projects in New York State. One single winning project is outside the US in Quebec, Canada, while the remaining domestic awardees span Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, South Carolina, Texas, and Virginia.

Collectively, the jury seemed to stress the importance of details at the human scale, as well as each project's ability to improve our experience of the built environment, regardless of size. Pointing to some of the smaller scale projects, juror Fuensanta Nieto, Founder, Nieto Sobejano Architectos, said, "We loved projects like The Refreshing Waters and the benches at Newark as you have to see them for what they are. Rather than assessing them in relation to larger projects, you must think of them as making people's lives better. We think that is the way that architecture and interior design should go."

"The Refreshing Waters project in particular," added juror David Darling, FAIA, Founder, Aidlin Darling Design, "is not about eye candy, but rather the idea. We're judging the concept and how it improves the human condition."

Of course, many large-scale projects are celebrated as winners, including Perelman Performing Arts Center, affordable housing at Bedford Green House I, the International African American Museum, and the Richard Gilder Center for Science, Education, and Innovation at the American Museum of Natural History. Of the latter, juror Andrew Thompson, AIA, NOMAC, LEED AP BD+C, County Architect, Passaic County of New Jersey, said, "This is an accessible entrance. People come in and they get some sense of how the museum is organized. How many buildings do you come into that suggest right away how they are organized? I in particular thought this was a blessing... I'm pleased we found a way to give this extraordinary accomplishment an award."

We invite you to browse all winners on our website. The spring issue of Oculus magazine will include further quotes from the jurors and a review of their discussion.

HONORS AND AWARDS LUNCHEON

Winning projects will be recognized at the Honors and Awards Luncheon, scheduled for Thursday, April 12, at Cipriani Wall Street.
